9M6XRO	My Rig Yaesu FT-920 and Quadra Linear @ 400 watts	Ant @ 27m 2-el LIghtning Bolt Quad	Started badly, big distortion on my SSB. Went from bad to worse. While trying to repair my SSB connector my soldering gun blew up with bits, smoke and sparks flying everywhere. Lost Saturday night. On Sunday used Selley's Epoxy Fix to fix the SSB plug connections without soldering them! "If it's Selley's it Works" says their logo - and it did actually work :-)) I will fix it properly one day I then went on to make 155 Q's in pretty mediocre condx. My thanks to the Contest Organisers and 73 to all from Borneo!

VK2AU			Great contest. Exceeded last years score by a few hundred thousand. Surprising.
VK2AZ	IC-7100-80W	Wire antennas 80M Inverted L	Hard going. It was frustrating listening to the local stations running beams. I could only hear a few of the stations they were working. For this reason I tried to concentrate on multipliers as much as possible. Surprised anyone could hear me on 160M with my 80M inverted L. Thank you to the 160M stations for their perseverance
VK2BBQ			Thanks for organising this great contest. Next year I hope to better my score! The dedication of volunteers is greatly appreciated.
VK2BFC			Great contest in poor conditions
VK2DCR			A quick half an hour at the end
VK2LEE			Excellent contest as usual - I didn't work any stations on Sunday due to My Log disappearing on my computer. A great disappointment after staying up late saturday night. It looks like I have found the log.
VK2TTL			Thanks for the contest, conditions were not too bad and I was able to get some time off to put an hour in on Sat and a few on Sunday avo.
VK2YJS	FT-857D	40M + 20M dipole
VK3DQW			Portable at 'Kangaroo Lodge'
VK3ER			Conditions were poor but made as many contacts as I could in the period on air
VK3IO			This year was not great conditions, with some high QRN on the low bands, but not too bad on 40M. In the future, a directional type beam antenna would be nice and I will try and make one for the CW section next weekend. Thanks for all who did call me, especially to those who gave me number 001. For the time I had available, it was a good contest and a lot of fun. 73's and hope to qso again in the next contest.
